

Become a Party Planner for the Gods

On pages 80-81, Loki talks about the things he misses from his life as a God of Asgard:

"I miss the feasts in Asgard. I miss the dancing. I miss the beautiful gardens and the luxurious clothes. I had this one robe that was so soft it was like being snuggled by a pile of puppies. I even miss the people."

Perhaps he needs a little reminder of his home, right here on Earth!

Plan a party fit for the Gods. Draw out the plans for this special day and make a list of everything you need.

You might include:

- A great feast
- Stylish and comfortable outfits
- Games and entertainment
- Music and dancing
- Decorations
- A guest list and invitations with all the important details

Once the party is planned, why not try it out? Create your luxurious party outfits from clothes or materials you already have. Lay out a banquet of your favourite foods (real or pretend). Put on or create some music and get everyone to dance. See what it's like to be a God in Asgard!
