

What kind of detective are you?

Are you ready to be a crime-busting sleuth?!

At the very start of High Rise Mystery (on page 2 in fact!) we learn that Nik and Norva use very different skills to solve crimes...

Nik likes to use facts, logic and evidence, while Norva chooses to use her instincts more (or 'waters' and 'bones' as she likes to call them!).

Together they make the perfectly balanced detective team to solve the spine-tingling murder mystery case in their building!

Your challenge is this:

Imagine that you are a detective...

- Are you more like Nik or Norva in your crime-solving methods? Do you like to use deduction and evidence or would you use your feelings and emotions to help you crack clues?
- Then think about your sidekick... who would be the perfect sidekick to help you solve mysteries? Why would they be so great? This could be someone you know like a friend or family member, someone famous in real life or someone from your imagination!

Draw or write a description of who your sidekick is. Why do you make such a perfect team? What crimes you would crack together?
