

Be Wild

Get out into nature!

In the beginning of October, October, October lives in the forest and describes herself as 'wild'. She loves living in the forest and finding things.

On page 27-28 she says:

'I'm going searching. Searching is my favourite thing to do in the woods. I have a tiny trowel, and I have a bucket and I am a detective.'

Find somewhere local to you where you can explore outside – this could be a park, a forest, a garden.

As you explore, see what interesting objects you can find in nature. With a pencil and some paper, catalogue the things you find. You could draw, write a list, or even collect the objects if you're able to.

October likes to collect stories too.

On page 16 she says:

'I take the three objects I scavenged earlier and lay them out on my bed. They rattle with stories.'

Choose a few items from your walk and tell a story that uses all your objects. Tell your story to the trees, the grass, the sky.
